Church of St. Mary Magdalene

TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME — SEPTEMBER 13, 2026

Then Peter approaching asked him, “Lord, if my brother sins against me, how often must I forgive him? As many as seven times?” Jesus answered, “I say to you, not seven times but seventy-seven times. That is why the kingdom of heaven may be likened to a king who decided to settle accounts with his servants. When he began the accounting, a debtor was brought before him who owed him a huge amount. Since he had no way of paying it back, his master ordered him to be sold, along with his wife, his children, and all his property, in payment of the debt. At that, the servant fell down, did him homage, and said, ‘Be patient with me, and I will pay you back in full.’ Moved with compassion the master of that servant let him go and forgave him the loan. When that servant had left, he found one of his fellow servants who owed him a much smaller amount. He seized him and started to choke him, demanding, ‘Pay back what you owe.’ Falling to his knees, his fellow servant begged him, ‘Be patient with me, and I will pay you back.’ But he refused. Instead, he had him put in prison until he paid back the debt. Now when his fellow servants saw what had happened, they were deeply disturbed, and went to their master and reported the whole affair. His master summoned him and said to him, ‘You wicked servant! I forgave you your entire debt because you begged me to. 33 Should you not have had pity on your fellow servant, as I had pity on you?’ Then in anger his master handed him over to the torturers until he should pay back the whole debt. So will my heavenly Father do to you, unless each of you forgives his brother from his heart.”

St. Mary Magdalene Mission Statement

We, the Eucharistic Community of St. Mary Magdalene, are called to conversion in Jesus Christ.

Our community life and worship are based on the Bible, the Sacraments, and the teachings of the Catholic Church.

Living the love of Christ impacts our moral, intellectual, and religious life, and makes us a caring community that brings hope to our families, neighborhood, and society.

Living God's Word

We pray that we might have the gift of forgiveness, both of receiving and giving it to others in turn. We ask the Holy Spirit to empower us to be able to forgive what the world judges to be "unforgiveable." While for us it can seem impossible, with God all things are possible.

TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Scriptural Reflection

Erich Segal died at the beginning of 2010. I remember reading his best seller Love Story and being moved by its then famous line "Love means never having to say you're sorry." Over the years I have really come to disagree with this. I believe love means having to say you're sorry and asking for forgiveness many times in life.

Today's Gospel reminds us that love also means being willing to forgive many times in life. We fail each other. We sin against each other. Sometimes we do this deliberately, sometimes thoughtlessly, but nonetheless it is painful for the one sinned against.

Is forgiveness ever easy—especially with a repeat offender? "Seven times?" Peter asks. "Seventy-seven times," Jesus replies. Today's readings give us the major reason to forgive others: God has forgiven us. There's more. Not to forgive is to let anger and wrath poison our hearts. Being unforgiving can imprison a person, resulting in bitterness, revenge, and a slow death of the spirit. Not to forgive can be more costly for the one offended.

Paul tells us we belong to the Lord, are called to serve him, to do his will, which is the will of the Father. And God's will is that we forgive one another. When the risen Lord first appeared to the disciples in the upper room, he wished them peace, and then gave them the power of the Spirit to forgive. This work is not limited to our going to the sacrament of reconciliation.

Pastor's Message

Dear Parishioners,
I would like to share with you this week a brief article by the Catholic New Service, The article is entitled Catholics cannot be unengaged spectators amid current events, pope says. The article goes on to say: The faithful are called to leave behind "all passivity and indifference" toward current events and the lives of others, especially amid the "rapid and profound changes we are experiencing today," Pope Leo XIV said at his weekly general audience. "We cannot remain as unengaged spectators; rather, we must listen with our hearts, allow ourselves to be challenged, and become involved," the pope said Sept. 2 in St. Peter's Square. "With Christ and sustained by the power of His Spirit, believers are called to take on the burdens of their brothers and sisters, especially those who are crushed by injustice, discrimination and violence," he said. Pope Leo began a new series of reflections on the Second Vatican Council's pastoral constitution "Gaudium et Spes," which examines the relationship between the Church and the modern world.

Recalling St. John XXIII's warning against the "prophets of doom," who regarded their own times as worse than the past, Pope Leo said Christians are instead called to share in the life of humanity as Christ did. Pope Leo XIV greets visitors and pilgrims from the popemobile while riding around St. Peter's Square at the Vatican before his weekly general audience Sept. 2, 2026. Such closeness to humanity, the pope said, also opens the way to a deeper understanding of events and of Revelation itself. "This is not, in fact, merely a moral imperative," he said. Addressing English-speaking pilgrims, Pope Leo said it is the Church's pastoral responsibility to engage with the contemporary world, share in its joys and sorrows and advocate for the poor and marginalized. The Church, he said, also must remain "attentive to the signs of the times," confronting "pressing issues such as the technological progress that benefits only some and the persistence of widespread poverty." His remarks came months after the publication of his first encyclical, "Magnifica Humanitas," which detailed his account of the global implications of artificial intelligence and warned against allowing technological development to proceed without prioritizing human dignity. "In our own day, marked by profound change and much injustice, each of us, then, is called to play our part in welcoming and listening to the deepest questions and longings of the human heart, making present to all the merciful love of Christ our Savior," the pope told English speakers. During a period of profound change that is producing "worrying imbalances," Pope Leo said the Church is called to serve the human person by listening to "the deepest questions of their heart and the longings that dwell within them." The Church must point people toward Christ, he said, as "the key, the focal point and the goal of all human history."

Stewardship

Stop and Think

Some of us are reluctant to volunteer for parish ministries and programs. We come to Mass and try not to get involved beyond that. People hang back for many reasons. One reason is fear—fear that anything they give will not be good enough. Others worry that if they offer just once they will be pressured into long-term commitment. Perhaps some don't want to risk being asked to do things they have no interest in or ability for. Not all reluctant volunteers are lacking in generosity; they may put more than their fair share in the collection, give generously to those undergoing hardship at Christmas and Thanksgiving, or send donations to a good cause. If you are one of the hesitant ones, perhaps you need to think hard about what your God-given abilities and interests really are. Perhaps you are good at listening, like to cook, enjoy making things, have good accounting or computer skills. Are you a leader, or do you like to be part of a team? Do you prefer to work behind the scenes? There is something in this parish only you can do! Even if you are sick, homebound, or travel for business, you can pray more. If you are a ministry leader now, how well do you communicate the purpose and activities of your ministry to parishioners? Do you explain the value and success of what you do? Is the name of your ministry confusing to newcomers? Are you truly welcoming and appreciative when someone shows an interest? If you are a committed volunteer, do you share your enthusiasm with other parishioners and invite them to join you and see how they like it? Our parish survives if only a few people are committed, but it thrives if everyone is included.

Living Stewardship Now

Have you committed your abilities, your time, and your financial resources to your parish for God and the Church? Is your involvement a true reflection of your gratitude to God? Do you need to give more, or give differently?

Culture of Life Ministry Corner

How Does the Seamless Garment Relate to the Culture of Life?

The Seamless Garment or consistent ethic of life was popularized by Cardinal Joseph Bernardin in 1983 advocating for the protection of all human life. In 1995, Saint Pope John Paul II coined the term "Culture of Life" to underline the need to create a society that values human life, respects human intrinsic dignity, and protects the inalienable rights of all human persons from conception to natural death.

How do these two concepts relate to each other? The seamless garment metaphor originates in John's gospel (19:23) where it describes the tunic worn by Jesus – a garment woven of one piece. Like the tunic of Jesus, life issues cannot be separated without the whole premise unravelling. The culture of life must mean we are all for life in all its permutations and combinations. If we take scissors to the seamless garment, snipping out the parts that don't appeal to us – our claim to respect life quickly unravels. It is not prioritizing one life issue over another – it is merely applying the principles consistently. Respect human intrinsic dignity and protect and defend life.
