Twenty Second Sunday in Ordinary Time A Scriptural Reflection

Who Is Peter?

We are at something of a disadvantage this week, having a separation of seven days between last week's Gospel reading and this week's. In Matthew's Gospel, these two passages follow immediately upon one another. So we don't realize that, in only a hundred words or so, Jesus has moved from referring to Peter as the rock on which the church will be built to calling him "Satan." So the point is Jesus founded the church on a "Satan"? Of course not. Jesus Christ founded, and continues to build—through the presence of his Body given to us, the church, by the Spirit of baptism—on human beings. He knows now, as he knew then, our frailness and built-in shortcomings. Today he begins his explanation of what his role as Messiah will mean during his last days in Jerusalem. And poor Peter leaps to the wrong conclusion, as many of us would, and still do. Peter is insistent upon following the conventional religious wisdom, the status quo, the commonly understood view of the Messiah. But it was this very view that Jesus came into this world to subvert.

Who Are We?

The spiritual author C. S. Lewis once wrote, in reflecting on how hard it is to pray for one's enemies as Christ commanded, that he had particular difficulty praying for people like Stalin or Hitler. This was because he had to come to terms with the fact that the very human failings that made them who they were are also present in each one of us. We can never be sure exactly how or why we are prevented from exercising that degree of evil and hatred; it is only through the grace and will of God that we don't. All the weakness and ignorance present in Peter today are present in all of us. We could not name one single baptized follower of Christ in whom these mortal failings were not or are not present. It is helpful for us to be alert about this, lest we follow in the way of Peter today and fail to realize that to follow Christ means following him to Jerusalem. It means actively taking up a cross, making our bodies a living sacrifice, as Paul says. It means examining the religious status quo of our day to make sure it is consistent with the sometimes harsh message of Jesus' good news. And it means making sure that we are more like last week's Peter, professing faith in Christ revealed to us by God, so we may continue to be strong and sturdy stones on which the church continues to be built.

PASTOR'S MESSAGE

Dear Parishioners:

It is that time of year again when schools are starting back up and education is at the forefront of our minds. This year, of course, classes started a little different but our mission is the same, helping our students become well rounded, faith filled, young men and women. I am so thankful for our School of the Madeline teachers and staff who have worked diligently throughout the summer to prepare for the school year with the challenges and blessings, which await us.

It is my sincere hope that our Religious Education and RCIA programs will resume as soon as possible and those who are awaiting the celebration of the Sacraments of Initiation will be able to join us at the Altar of the Lord in the near future. I am grateful to all of those who have so patiently waited during these interesting times.

Recently the Vatican published a document on the Role of Parish Community. Over the next few weeks I would like to share some parts of this document for our reflection. The authors write: In virtue of this discernment, the Parish is called upon to read the signs of the times, while adapting both to the needs of the faithful and to historical changes. A renewed vitality is required that favors the rediscovery of the vocation of the baptized as a disciple of Jesus Christ and a missionary of the Gospel, in light of the Second Vatican Council and subsequent Magisterium. The Council Fathers were prescient in writing: "the care of souls should always be infused with a missionary spirit". In continuity with this teaching, Saint John Paul II specified that: "Whilst the Parish is perfected and integrated in a variety of forms, it nevertheless remains an indispensable organism of primary importance in the visible structure of the Church", whereby "evangelization is the cornerstone of all pastoral action, the demands of which are primary, preeminent and preferential". Subsequently, Benedict XVI taught, "the parish is a beacon that radiates the light of the faith and thus responds to the deepest and truest desires of the human heart, giving meaning and hope to the lives of individuals and families". Lastly, Pope Francis recalled how "the parish encourages and trains its members to be evangelizers".

In order to promote the centrality of the missionary presence of the Christian community in the world, it is important not only to think about a new experience of Parish, but also about the ministry and mission of priests, who, together with the lay faithful, have the task of being "salt and light of the world" (cf. Mt 5:13-14), a "lamp on a lamp-stand" (cf. Mk 4:21), showing forth the face of an evangelizing community, capable of an adequate reading of the signs of the times and of giving witness to coherent evangelical living. Beginning with a consideration of the signs of the times, it is necessary, in listening to the Spirit, to produce new signs. With the Parish no longer being the primary gathering and social center, as in former days, it is thus necessary to find new forms of accompaniment and closeness. A task of this kind ought not to be seen as a burden, but rather as a challenge to be embraced with enthusiasm. Imitating their Master, the Lord's disciples, in the school of Saints and shepherds, learned, not without suffering, how to await the times and ways of God, thus nurturing the certainty that He is present until the end of time, and that the Holy Spirit – the beating heart in the life of the Church– gathers together the children of God dispersed throughout the world. As a result, the Christian community should not be afraid to begin and accompany processes within territories that are host to diverse cultures, in the sure and certain hope that, for the disciples of Christ, "nothing genuinely human fails to raise an echo in their hearts".

LIVING STEWARDSHIP NOW

Stewardship: An Attitude of Gratitude

“Gratitude is not only the greatest of virtues, but the parent of all others.”- Cicero

Sometimes when a parish does not have enough involvement in its ministries, or is having difficulties with finances, the first reaction is, “stewardship didn’t work”. This presumes that stewardship is about generosity. Somehow, the parish has not done enough to encourage parishioners to be more generous in their donations of time, talent, and treasure.

Stewardship is never about generosity, but rather about gratitude. Everyone can embrace this as a way of life. Gratitude is the strongest motivation for giving. When people give of themselves to the parish, the diocese, the community, they do so because they are grateful. It makes no difference who the pastor or bishop or mayor is. A mature faith allows us to realize that we have enough and more than we need and that giving is a celebration of life. This is stewardship: giving after reflecting on your blessings, and giving out of gratitude. How do we do this?

“Stewardship is God’s way of raising people-not our way of raising money.”-Wesley Willmer

We have a sense of what God expects from us because we are so aware of what he gives us. Serving the needs of others beyond the parish is something he expects.

Remember to Support Our Advertisers!

The Cross of Jesus

The perception of a cross changed dramatically after Jesus’ crucifixion. Before that event, death on a cross was not only horrible, it was degrading. It was a penalty reserved only for the most wretched of criminals. The word “glory” would not have found its way into the same sentence containing the word “cross.” But all that changed with Jesus. Over time, believers began to venerate and honor the cross. They painted, sculpted, and carved images of it. Many lost their own lives for their association with it. Today our reverence for and relationship with the cross recalls little of the contempt originally associated with it. As it has been through the ages, it is our perception of the cross that determines how we follow Jesus.
